

Your student planning companion.

Your future, our guidance.

A practical starting point for researching destinations, building a university shortlist and preparing for your next chapter.

01 Start with your profile

Write down your qualifications, preferred subjects, academic interests and intended career direction. Your budget and timeline belong in this first conversation too.

02 Compare destinations and courses

Read official university programme pages. Compare modules, teaching language, entry criteria, location and the qualification you will receive.

03 Organise your application documents

Create separate folders for identity information, academic records, language evidence and application materials. Follow each institution's instructions for copies, translations and certification.

A considered plan. A clearer next step.

04 Plan the complete budget

Research tuition, accommodation, everyday costs, travel, insurance and application charges. Use current official figures, record the source and avoid assuming scholarship awards or employment income.

05 Review offers and official requirements

Understand offer conditions before accepting. University admission and permission to enter or remain in a country are separate decisions. Check the relevant government guidance for current immigration requirements.

06 Prepare for arrival

Read your university's enrolment and arrival guidance. Verify accommodation arrangements, plan airport transport and keep essential documents and support contacts accessible.

Questions for your first conversation

- What subject do I want to study, and why?
- Which programmes fit my academic background?
- What is my complete, realistic budget?
- Which documents or assessments do I need to prepare?
- What are the institution's official deadlines?

Planning guide only. Confirm current programme details, fees, deadlines and immigration requirements with the relevant institution or official authority. No admission, scholarship or visa outcome is guaranteed.
